Carl's Dye-a-logue

For the benefit of those who do not have Facebook (or are not "friends" with me...why is that, by the way?), here is an article I found rather insightful.

There are many excuses used for not assembling with the saints. Through the years, we have heard just about everything imaginable. Some folks are kept away by a rainy day while others are homebound because their pets were unruly! As one man said, "Any excuse is as good as another." Read the article and see if it is not the mindset of many in the church today.

The story was told of a preacher who began showing up late for services and even missing the "prayer meeting" altogether. The straw that broke the camel's back was when he did not show up at all one Lord's Day because he had taken a drive in the country to see the beautiful fall colors. The "elders" met and decided to fire the man. The secretary summed it all up in the minutes of the meeting by saying, "It was clear he cannot be a minister here if he insists on acting like the rest of our members..."

I suppose we would all laugh if we could not see so much truth in the notation made by the secretary. Most preachers would be fired if they tried to get away with what some of the members do. Whether we admit it or not, like it or not, we do have a "double standard." I am not suggesting, by any means that the preacher should be allowed to get by with what some of the members get by with. Neither am I suggesting that we should hold the preacher up as our standard for Christianity, even though he should strive to be a good example (1 Corinthians 11:1). What I am suggesting is that we ALL bring our lives up to the standard Christ set for us. "For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps" (1 Peter 2:21).

May we, one, and all, act like true followers of Christ, and not try to get away with behavior that is anything less. After all, it's a losing proposition to try and get away with anything that is wrong. "For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil" (Ecclesiastes 12:14).
