Carl's Dye-a-logue

"What's in a name?" Have you ever been asked that question? The meaning is that a name doesn't matter. And in some cases, I would agree. But sometimes a name matters a great deal.

When I was young, I was taught that we are defined not by doing what we are expected to do, but by the actions we take when others don't expect it.

This story, which I saw the other day on Facebook, is a great example. I don't know who wrote it or where it originated, but it can be found on www.thedailyheadline.com.

My Dad taught me many lessons growing up, he spoke to me about honesty, respect and honor. One day when I was a young man I ran out of fuel in my car. I was a few miles from home and without a penny. I walked into a pub and asked if I could use their phone to get my Dad to come and collect me. They told me there was a pay-phone in the corner. I asked if they had 25 cents so I could make the call and they obliged.

My Dad came, and the following day I picked up my car. When I got home from work the next day, my Dad asked me if I had stopped off to repay the 25 cents I had borrowed. I told him "No" as I had not borrowed the money but they had just given it to me, and it was only 25 cents.

He told me to pop in and return it, then he told me why: "If you don't return that 25 cents no one will mind, no one will even notice. However, if you make an effort to return that 25 cents, then, they will notice your actions, they will all notice. They will see that you are an honest man and they will remember you and your good example. If you ever need a favor again they will be happy to help you."

He went on to say, "It takes a lifetime to build a good reputation, but only a moment to lose it." He was in business for years and was very respected by all. Now he is living with me and my family because he needs constant care.

People don't talk much these days about honor and the value of a good name, but I am proud of my good name and thankful to my Dad for it.

Proverbs 22:1 tells us: "A good name is more desirable than great riches; to be esteemed is better than silver or gold."

Friend's Day

Friend's Day will be August 28, 2016. Begin now to invite your friends, neighbors, co-workers, even your enemies to attend this fantastic day of outreach. There are plenty of invitations on the table in the foyer: some are designed to be mailed, others handed out. If you notice we are running low, please let the office know.

This year we will simply be asking a question:

My family has this verse in a prominent spot in our house. When it comes to our family, our family name is very important. How we conduct ourselves outside of the house has a bearing on how people see those who live inside the house.

But we belong to another family as well... God's family. We wear the name Christian because we are a part of His family. How we conduct ourselves each day is a reflection on Him. Our level of honesty and integrity has a bearing on how others see Him.

So, "What's in a name?" When it comes to family (either our physical or our spiritual) ...only everything!
